tained in the third communication which has reached civilization from that now prominent sportsman since the ancouncement of the discovery of the Pole. The message was received here today by Harry Benedict, a close friend of Whitney's. It reads as follows:

"Indian Harbor, Labrador, via Cape Ray, Sept. 24.
"Harry Benedict, New Haven, Conn.
"Rushing home. See you soon. Hard winter. Wonderful shooting. Have skins for you. Picked up shipwrecked crew. Terrible suffering. Notify Frank and George. Harry Whitney."

It is believed by his friends here that as soon as he reaches Sydney he will start home by rail and will arrive here the latter part of next week. His reason for this haste is not explained by friends. In a previous message and a letter he stated that he would not be home before the middle of October.

LONDONERS VISIT SHACKLETON SHIP

LONDON, Sept. 25.-With nothing bet ter to appeal to their enthusiasm and plainly jealous of the good fortune of Americans in having two of their coun-trymen to laud as North Pole finders, Londoners are today visiting the little ship Nimrod in which Lieutenant Shackleton went farther into the antarctic region than any explorer had ever gone before.

The craft is moored in the Thames, just off Temple Pier, within a stone's throw of the parliament building, and has just been opened to the public

Nearly all the lieutenant's exploring outfit is aboard, including sledges, sleeping bags, cookers, and wearing apparel, and members of the antarctic crew are present to explain the uses of the various articles.

To the regret of the visitors, there are no Eskimos on the ship, as, according to Shackleton, there are no Eskimos in the antarctic regions.

"I am firmly convinced that the safety of the public in motion picture houses of the large seating capacity, can only be effected by the promulgation of a regulation similar to that in force respecting theaters, requiring alley ways of at least seven feet.

"I respectfully submit that the amended regulations should provide that all seats shall be so arranged that there shall not be more than thirteen seats in a line between aisles; that there shall be two side alley ways, the same as in the regular theaters, that there shall be a reasonable amount of walking space in the rear of the auditorium; that the stage shall be of fireproof construction to the same extent as the theaters, and that the aisles be made to taper the same width as in theaters, to the end toat the public may have as much protection in one as in the other."
